Introduction

REMPEC

The Regional Marine Pollution Emergency Response Centre for the Mediterranean Sea (REMPEC) assists the Mediterranean coastal States in ratifying, transposing, implementing and enforcing international maritime conventions related to the prevention of, preparedness for and response to marine pollution from ships.

The foundations for regional co-operation in the fields of prevention of, preparedness for and response to marine pollution from ships in the Mediterranean are set out in the 2002 Prevention and Emergency Protocol (Protocol concerning Co-operation in Preventing Pollution from Ships and, in Cases of Emergency, Combating Pollution of the Mediterranean Sea) to the Barcelona Convention (Convention for the Protection of the Marine Environment and the Coastal Region of the Mediterranean).

The Prevention and Emergency Protocol, which entered into force on 17 March 2002, is the regional instrument that sets the main principles of co-operation in dealing with threats to the marine environment, the coasts and related interests of the Contracting Parties posed by accidental releases or by accumulations of small, operational discharges, of oil or other harmful substances.

REMPEC Country Profiles

Contracting Parties to the Prevention and Emergency Protocol of the Barcelona Convention committed themselves to use their best endeavours to render assistance to the other Parties who so request in case of emergency (Article 12 of the Prevention and Emergency Protocol). This assistance may comprise, in particular, expert advice, product, equipment and nautical facilities. With a view to helping Mediterranean coastal States to fulfil their obligations, the Contracting Parties to the Barcelona Convention have assigned to REMPEC the function to collect and disseminate information concerning “experts, equipment and installations in each coastal State which can be put, under certain conditions, at the disposal of the State which so requests in case of emergency (Function A(ii) of the amended Annex to Resolution 7 “Objectives and functions of the Centre”).

The corresponding information are collected and included in the Country Profiles section of REMPEC website. The Country Profiles are exclusively updated by the Contracting Parties to the Barcelona Convention. The data of this document has been automatically extracted and compiled from the Country Profiles database.

RIS B3 - Directory of companies offering services in the Mediterranean in case of emergency

Experience of various countries from all over the world clearly indicates that efficient response to a major accidental marine pollution is a task which inevitably surpasses the capabilities of any single country. Therefore, international co-operation is called for to supplement national capacities and very often there is also a need for intervention of professional companies which may provide pollution control related services. With a view to increasing the level of preparedness to face an accidental spillage of either oil or another harmful substance, of each particular Mediterranean coastal State and of the region as a whole, and aware of the fact that it is absolutely impractical to start searching for those who may offer a certain type of assistance only when an accident occurs, a directory of companies which may provide the above mentioned type of services had to be established and kept up to date. As explained above, the companies listed in this directory have been identified by their respective national authorities.
